Researchs of 15h April 2016, 11th September 2014 and 6th November 2014

Protocole 8518 (added in 15 April 2016). Will of Ana de Losada (b.a. 1615?) , widow of Manuel Rodríguez, shoemaker, in 3 May 1656. It is likely that they were of Portuguese or Galician origin, because of their last names and the job of Manuel, typical of converted Jews then.

Protocole 9113 (added in 15 April 2016). Will of doña María Rodríguez de Losada (b.a. 1615-1620?), wife of Domingo Cid, notary clerk of Madrid, in 28 May 1655. She was a daughter of Marcos Rodríguez de Losada and Juana Mata, and had two brothers: the second lieutenant D. Gaspar Rodríguez de Losada, who died in the Spanish War of Seccession in Badajoz, and Juan Rodriguez de Losada, who was in Sicily. This last name Rodríguez de Losada could have its origin in the province of Orense, Galicia, or in Portugal.

Protocole 10052 (added in 15 April 2016). Will of doña Ana de Losada (b.a. 1570-1575?), widow of Franco [Francisco?] Gómez, notary clerk of the Royal Board of Works and Forests, in 12 May 1661. They had two late daughters, Antonia Gómez Tenorio (b.a. 1600-1605?) and Melchora Gómez, one alive son, friar Gabriel Gómez, religious of the order of Our Lady of Mercy, and three grandchildren: doña Melchora (b.a. 1630-1635?), don Marcos and don Fernando de Saavedra y Losa[da?], children of the above-mentioned doña Melchora and Fernando de Saavedra. Moreover, doña Ana had a late sister named doña María de Arias. They could be in part or Galician origin, because of their last names, but also from another areas of Western Spain and even Portugal.

Protocole 3935 (added in 15 April 2016)

Protocole 5709 (added in 15 April 2016)

Protocole 5428. Main finding: marriage contract in 1628 of Tomás Rodríguez Pereira (b.a. 1605), native of Vila Flor, son of Antonio Pereira and Beatriz Gerónima (b. about 1575?), to Beatriz Gómez, daughter of Basco Fernández Gómez and Inés de Matos.

Protocole 2111. Inventory of goods in 1610 of the late Domingo Pereira, Portuguese merchant resident in Madrid, brother of Antonio Pereira, also merchant. Updated in 6th November 2014 (no result; I finished to see the whole protocole; I realized that this notary was a Notary of Province in the Court, not a normal notary of the town).

Note: Domingo Pereira made documents before the notary Miguel Álvarez, but the protocols of this notary, active in 1612 yet, did not last out.

Protocole 3873. Inventory of goods of Leonor Gerónima, 4-4-1625, likely a glazier, wife of Pedro Soler and relative of doña Catalina Gutiérrez. Her origin is not said. Added in 6th November 2014.

Protocole 61. Last will of Miguel Gerónimo¹, silversmith, husband of Inés de León, resident of Cordova living in Madrid, in 17th September 1563. Brother of Francisco de Cordova, allegedly also a silversmith in Cordova, and Gonzalo Alonso. Added in 6th November 2014.

Protocole 9081. Last will of Antonio de Losada, husband of Isabel Alfonso [= Afonso], 11 April 1656, fol. 128. Added in 6th November 2014. With no children. He was a son of the late Pedro Rodríguez and the late Isabel Méndez de Losada, natives and residents in Vinhais (Bragança, Portugal).

Protocole 7409. Partition of goods of Antonio Rodríguez, tapestry weaver, 13-6-1625, fol. 506. Widower of Catalina Gil, of whom he had a son named Juan Rodríguez. He made a contract marriage to Isabel Díaz Delgado and it seems that he had a brother called Juan Rodríguez, apothekary. Antonio married after to María Rodríguez, native of Galicia, in 1629. In 1641 he was a representative of the Holy Office. Added in 6th November 2014.

They had two children: Francisca Juana Rodriguez, 12 years old (b.a. 1643-1644), and José Rodríguez, husband of María de la Peña. It is likely that the were of Portuguese or Galician origin, because of their last names and the job of Manuel, typical of converted Jews then.

Gaspar Rodríguez de Losada, who died in the Spanish War of Secession (1640-1652) in the town of Badajoz, and Juan Rodriguez de Losada, who was in Sicily (Italy). This last name Rodríguez de Losada could have its origin in the province of Orense, Galicia, where there were some noble lineages of this surname, or in Portugal.

I saw only a little part of this protocole, because I went directly to see the inventory of the estate of Domingo Pereira in 1610, whose refference is in the books of (incomplete) indexes of last wills of these archives⁷. Main finding: Inventory in 1610 of the goods of the late Domingo Pereira, Portuguese merchant resident in Madrid, probably native of Vila Flor or its area, brother of Antonio Pereira, also merchant and neighbour of Madrid, relatives of Beatriz Pereira. (This Antonio Pereira could be the father of Tomás Rodríguez Pereira; if Antonio and his family had lived also in Madrid during the Thomás' infancy, this would explain better because in some books it is said that Thomás was born in Madrid).

Protocole 2111 (since the folio 140). Year 1608 [etc]. Notary Felipe de Escobar. No index.

[Inventory of goods ("inventario de bienes") of the late Domingo Pereira, merchant native of Portugal, brother of Antonio Pereira, 1610-II-1; photocopied, 15 pages]. Antonio Pereira, resident in Madrid, I say that my brother Domingos [sic] Pereira, Portuguese merchant, resident in this town, died in it in 24 January 1610 and by his last will he made Antonio his testamentary executor and I must make the inventory of his goods.
